

Roy Sun

University of Toronto, Environmental Science

Class of 2018 Valedictorian

Roy came from the province of Fujian, China and joined our school's residence for the past two years. He consistently demonstrated his excellence in academics as well as his positive attitude towards learning. He was known amongst his peers for being incredibly friendly and always reliable. On October 2017 Roy was awarded the Student of the Month Award for Fairness. He regards the teachers at J. Addison School as very friendly, approachable and helpful to the students. He encourages all current and new students to take advantage of the vast resources available to them at J. Addison School.

Mahbod Ebrahimi

York University, Life Sciences

Class of 2018 Salutatorian

Mahbod was originally a high school student from Iran, and his ultimate goal has always been to become a doctor. Prior to arriving at J. Addison School, he met with our guidance counselors to create a study plan that was specifically personalized for him to achieve his goals. In the classroom, Mahbod was proactive and focused. While on his free time, he actively participated in various community events and involved himself in Student Council affairs. Mahbod graduated with Honors Distinction and was awarded an $11,000 Entrance Scholarship by York University, including the $5,000 J. Addison - York University Partnership Scholarship awarded exclusively to J. Addison School graduates.

Erika Joseph

Canisius College, Social Science

Class of 2018 Valedictorian, Athletic Scholarship

Erika transferred to J. Addison School from California to participate on our Elite Girls' Basketball Team. Erika was always full of positive energy in the classroom and on the basketball court. During basketball games, she often made smart plays with her teammates and motivated them to play their best. Her strong academic record, outgoing personality, and outstanding basketball skills are the main reasons why Canisius College admitted her on a full scholarship.

Rachael Niles

Farleigh Dickinson University, Biology

Athletic Scholarship

Rachael was an honor-roll student throughout her entire high school career. Her great reputation as a skilled basketball player and leader on the Elite Girls' Basketball Team is acknowledged by everyone at J. Addison School. Rachael was also named a finalist for Prep Player of the Year. Regardless of where Rachael is, she carries herself with tremendous leadership qualities, self-confidence and maturity. As an overall team player, Rachael and her teammates brought our Elite Girls' Basketball Team to place among the Top 3 teams out of all Canadian Prep Schools.
